

Music: Two seconds of...

Lyrics: Anna-Lena Michel

The Lucky Ones

Will you ever get home

You will never be alone

There is something straight inside your eyes

Something stronger – you can stay alive

I'll take care of you at night

I'll assist you in your fights

That will bring you to your knees sometimes

You can hold your head up high

I can show you how to stay

I'll direct you in a way

That will lead you to the other side

Somewhere for a better life

You and me will be reborn

In a world that isn't torn

Where we used to be the lucky ones

If there's one thing I can swear

That I'm the one who'll ever bear

All your burdens and your heavy doubts

You know that I will care about

I would give away my heart
That we will never be apart
And we used to be the lucky ones

There is more than we can see
Here's a place where we can be
Something more than just a broken mind
There's no use for us to be so blind
You can take my breath away
I would always walk the way
That you'll choose and I will follow you
There is nothing that we won't get through

Now's the time to take my hand
I will love you till the end
Cause we used to be the lucky ones

